To Our Subscribers.

We are mailing out statements as fast as we can to those of our subscribers who are in arrears. The present high price of paper and every thing that enters into the making of a paper renders it imperative that we collect all that is due us and we hope our readers will appreciate our position and pay up as promptly as possible. Please do not neglect this matter.

Of course, in handling several hundred of these accounts, it would be humanly impossible for some errors not to be made, but where they are brought to our attention they will be cheerfully corrected. When in doubt ask to see either the assistant editor or myself. Don't neglect this now but give it your immediate attention and greatly oblige.

Yours to serve,

FLETCHER DAVIS,
Publisher.

Mothers' Club Meeting.

The parent, teachers association met at the High School building in regular session, September 11, 1916, at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Dr. Mayer, president, called the meeting to order. The minutes of the previous meetings were read and approved. Mrs. D. W. Short, Treasurer, reported amount collected from various sources—Fair, picture shows, dinners and peanuts—about $612.00 for the summer months.

Supt. Feeler addressed the association on the needs of play ground apparatus, and informed them that he had purchased a giant-stride and placed it on the play ground. He also discussed the needs of a gynophore for the school, to be used in the teaching of songs, drills, marches, physical culture, and calisthenics so essential to promote bodily strength and gracefulness.

Supt. Saathoff addressed the association on the needs of school apparatus. He urges that in order to attain a high standard and ever receive any state aid for Agriculture, Manual training or Domestic Science, the school needs maps in all the intermediate grades and a full set of latest maps in the High school division; several globes should be purchased to be used in the higher grades. Physiological charts and relief maps should be placed so that the pupils may have access to them, a complete library and a full set of reference books and atlases should also be at the children's disposal. Supt. Saathoff maintains that affiliation, nowadays, means a great deal to any high school. He urged the association to use every means possible and to put forth every effort in assisting the faculty in bringing about affiliation, since it means dollars and cents to every one who contemplates attending the universities.

The committee on program submitted an outline for the year's work which was adopted, and ordered that 300 copies of the program be printed.

All the teachers of the faculty joined the association.

No further business appearing the association adjourned to meet Oct. 9, 4 p. m.

Clean-Up Day Proclamation.

The Board of Health, having appointed the 18th day of Sept., A. D. 1916, as a "Clean-up Day" for the citizens of Hondo, therefore, this notice is to inform all the people of Hondo that the Mothers' Club of Hondo feels such great interest in this clean-up move that they wish and desire to see our town the equal or rather the superior of any town in Texas in hygienic cleanliness, that the dreaded dengue or any other dreaded disease will not invade our naturally healthy bounds. Wherefore we, the Mothers' Club, kindly ask all persons, freeholders, house-holders and temporary sojourners, to diligently clean up their premises, habitats and local surroundings in Hondo. Place the rubbish, garbage and refuse in old tubs, barrels or receptacle ready for removal to the dump ground. The Health Authorities will provide conveyances by which such garbage, rubbish and refuse shall be conveyed to the dump ground.

Attend to this matter, dear people of Hondo, and help the Mothers' Club in having a clean and healthy town.

Clean Up!!!

There is a good deal of Dengue fever in Texas. It is reported that there are a good many cases in San Antonio. Dengue fever is now considered a mild form of yellow fever. Yellow fever is transmitted by the mosquito. The mosquito breeds in weeds and low damp places. Chop the weeds and oil the places that cannot be drained. Clean your closets and lime them every day. A little labor now will prevent sickness. This applies every where whether in town or on the farm.

W. H. SMITH,
County Health Officer.

THE RUMMAGE SALE

By HOPE AINSLIE.

One of those woolen fascinators that women used to wear over their hair when they went out in the evening, a set of bone dishes of the same date of usefulness, an umber of dilapidated umbrellas, hand-boxes full of old hats and pieces of hats, saucers without any cups and cups without any saucers, and a motley collection of out-of-date men's and women's clothing—such was the array of articles that Molly Bergen found in the living room one cool morning in November when she returned from her usual trip to the village.

"Whatever on earth"—she began, pulling off her gloves and slipping out of her sport coat.

Her mother anticipated her question. "Those are for the rummage sale for the benefit of the old people's home." Mrs. Bergen was sitting at her desk laboriously rubbing the names off from Christmas and Easter and other seasonal cards. "I'm getting these cards ready, too. I've saved them ever since before you were born. There are many hundreds of them and most of them I can use. We can sell them for five for a cent. Some one will want to buy them."

Molly drew her chair to the open fireplace and stretched out her hands to the blaze. "Have you heard the news, mother?" she asked by way of announcing that there was news to tell.

"The Stanleys' house is opened again. Yes, it is Tom Stanley, I think, though I know you don't agree with me when I say that he is quite the best looking man that I ever saw. I know what you are going to say. You're going to say that it isn't becoming for a young, eligible girl to make complimentary remarks like that about men—you weren't going to say it just that way, but that would have been the gist of it. But really you mustn't mind. All girls are quite frank about those things nowadays."

"I wasn't going to say that at all," assured the mother. "I'm sure Mr. Stanley is very handsome, but don't imagine for a minute that he is to that large fortune is going to be one little bit interested in a little country mouse like you."

"I'm not a country mouse at all. Haven't I been away to boarding school?" Anyway, I've met that Stanley man and he's fine. His cousin was at boarding school—not that he cared at all for her. She was engaged at the time. He dropped around to see her once or twice. I met him. But what were you going to say?"

"Simply that your remark gave me an idea that I might telephone there for a bundle of rummage. I am sure they have plenty of old things that they don't want that would sell very easily."

"No one is there but old Tom and the man who drives his car. Old man hates the country. Son adores it. He's making the old house a headquarters for a hunting trip. Just gets in the village on the eleven-seven and starts out hunting again this afternoon. That's what the village gossips say."

"Before Molly had finished, Mrs. Bergen had picked up her desk phone to get into communication with the Stanley house. Her voice was sweetness personified when she spoke.

"Mr. Stanley, excuse me for phoning the minute you arrived, but we are giving a rummage sale, beginning this afternoon, for the benefit—" and so she went on with her honeyed words of explanation.

As a matter of fact, the telephone bell had been ringing when Stanley arrived at the house. Tom had dropped the armful of paraphernalia that he had with him on the front porch to hurry in to answer the call.

There was a chance that it was important business news from New York.

Meantime his one-time chauffeur, who was active as chief cook and bottle-washer and boon companion on the proposed hunting trip, had stopped at the village for provisions and Tom had dismissed the station taxi.

"I'm sure I can dig up something. Old books we have lots of," Tom said over the phone. "And I have a trunk full of old clothes somewhere. I'll get my man to hunt them up. Nothing very wonderful, of course, for we have to wear our clothes till they are worn out, but perhaps they will be salable for a few cents. I really wouldn't dare to give you anything from around the house, though I am quite sure there are loads of useless things, but when my sister comes out next time she might discover that I had given away all the family heirlooms. I'll send my man over with the bundle."

"Please don't bother," Mrs. Stanley replied. "I shall be delighted to stop.

You may be away on your trip. In that case, leave the bundle on the front veranda. My daughter will run down in the car. My daughter says she has met you. No, indeed, I should really rather have her stop for them."

Tom Stanley experienced a decidedly agreeable turn of memory at the name of Mrs. Stanley's daughter. Yes, she was the decidedly pretty, vivacious blonde he had met at his cousin's boarding school. She had told him that her home was near one of his many homes. He had promised himself the pleasure of hunting her up some time. In fact, he had made two trips to the country with a half idea of finding an excuse to meet her again. But Tom was anything but a ladies' man, and he had merely loafed around the rambling old house for a day or so reading beside the open fire that his man kept burning cheerfully for him.

Today he had intended to start out after luncheon, tie decided to wait till the girl had called. While his man prepared the simple luncheon he ruminated around the attic for the promised books and clothes. He got them ready in a large basket that he thought could be easily put into the car.

It was three when Molly called. Tom had not gone out. "Even if Mr. Stanley should still be in," her mother had warned her, "just pick up the bundle from the veranda and come away. You know how people would talk if they saw you going into his house."

An hour later, Stanley, having missed the sound of Molly's light footsteps on the veranda and giving up hope of seeing her, started off for his trip to the hunting club. On the veranda, he looked for the bundle he had left there hurriedly when he entered the house in the morning. It contained a new fur motor coat, mink lined; two sleeping rugs, hunting boots, oilskins, half a dozen new books fresh from the printers, and two new steamer rugs—in short, his entire outfit outside of provisions and arms. He thought perhaps he had left them in the station taxi, but a trip of his man to the station and his own recollection of having lifted the bundle from the taxi convinced him this was not the case. Perhaps his man had taken the things indoors for safekeeping; but on inquiry and patient searching he found this was not so.

After passing a half hour in doubt, he suddenly recalled that something had been said about Molly Bergen taking a package left on the veranda. That cleared the matter. He would telephone to the Bergens at once. Of course they would have seen the mistake. It would be easy to explain. But no one was home but the cook.

"Sure 'nuff Miss Bergen and Miss Molly done gone to the scrubbage sale. Yassar, been gone all afternoon. No sir, there's no telephone there. It's at the old hay barn on the Smith place and the Smith place done burned down, so there's no telephone there, neither."

It was nearly five and Tom was just getting ready to start out in person to the "hay barn" of the Smith farm, wherever that might be, when the telephone rang at his side. It was Mrs. Bergen's sweetest voice.

"I just took a chance at finding you home. I thought maybe it would be cold for you to start out this afternoon. I must thank you. Such beautiful things I never saw. Why, it was only about ten minutes before they were all sold. And such high prices, too!

We actually got twenty dollars for that coat!" Tom had paid eighty for it a week before—"and the books

my daughter was glad to buy. One would hardly know they had been read—" As a matter of fact the leaves had not even been cut. "And the rugs and the blankets and everything were simply splendid. I can never thank you enough for being so interested in our old people's home. They really made my little offerings look quite shabby. I had managed to get to gether some interesting antiques myself that sold pretty well, but not so well as your things. And, Mr. Stanley, if you would care to we should be delighted to have you come to call. You are all alone. Perhaps you would share our simple family dinner with us.

"I'll send down the car for you at once. No, I promise I won't have a thing done for you except to have an extra place laid. And I'll tell you that our waitress has gone and we have only a cook, so you know how simply we shall dine."

She didn't add that there had never been a waitress in the Bergen household and probably never would be.

No sooner had she put down the telephone receiver than she rushed to the kitchen, her excited daughter who had been listening to the conversation

following her. "Olive, for pity sake," she said, addressing the cook, "open a large can of bouillon and some olives.

And if you have time make the butter into balls and get out that bottle of port that the grocer sent by accident with the last order. And, Molly, hurry and get out the best china, and lay an extra place at the table, and get down the candlesticks and—and when your father comes in whisper to him that he is to make no comments. Tell him not to put his foot in it the way he did the last time we used the candles by asking if the electricity had been turned off. And, Olive, be sure to wear that cap I bought you the time the minister dined with us. Molly, you'll have to take the car around for

Mr. Stanley. You might make some remarks about the chauffeur being ill or his day off or something if you think it would look better. Slip into your little blue muff before you go.

I'll wear my black moire. Really,

those Stanleys must have a great deal of money to be able to discard such perfectly splendid things. And he seemed so delighted when I told him that they had sold well. I am sure he has a very kind heart. Molly, he is really interested in you already, for he seemed fairly to jump at the invitation to dinner. I wonder why he didn't go hunting. It wasn't really so very cold."

"The new minister called upon the factory superintendent today."

"How'd he come out?"

"Boiling. The busy superintendent thought he was a man looking for a job and told him that he would give him a job in spite of his looks, if he could furnish first-class references and give a bond."

From The Far East.

Yenang Young, Upper Burma, Ind.

July 6, 1916.

Dear Mother and Sister:

I have just received your letter but I have no news to give you in return, except that I am well and had a very good Fourth, as we are given all the holidays enjoyed by you in the States. Some of us went hunting yesterday—some to one place and some to another. We have plenty of wild game here, as there are lions, tigers, elephants, leopards, bears, water buffaloes, deer and many other animals near.

There are about three hundred Americans here and just myself and another man from Texas. All others are from Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and California. I am enclosing a photo of myself and another man, who came over with me all the way. We are on our little ponies which are a necessity in this country. In the picture there is also a group of natives, Burmese and Indians. The Burmese are brown and the Indians are black. They wear rings in their noses and ears and on their toes, which is a great sight especially after considering their scant attire. You can see that we have our work clothes on; and by the way, how do you like my hat?

Now about my work. I don't do any work at all. I just look after the work. The company has a very large shop. I alone have five blacksmiths under my supervision, and each blacksmith has from ten to twelve helpers; the latter are all natives.

You asked how far I am from Jerusalem. I am about eight thousand miles, but when I stepped in Port Said, Egypt, I was only about 150 miles from Jerusalem. You can find it on the map. Egypt, unless I err, is the country, you will remember, Christ was taken, to prevent old King Herod killing him. And while I think of it, I want to tell you we drank water of Nile River, too.

You wanted to know if I came via Mediterranean Sea. Yes, I left Liverpool, touched Spain, Egypt, Turkey and Arabia; went over the Mediterranean Sea, Red Sea, Indian Ocean, into Bengal Bay and finally landed here.

Another thing, you asked how long I would be here. Well until after Christmas and possibly not until next spring will I come home. I like this place fine you see. Regarding the route I shall take home, I have decided to go by China, thence to San Francisco. From there I shall take the S. P. home. Then I shall have gone around the world and the majority can't say that.

Give all my best regards,

H. F. CAMERON.

If Love Is There.

Is home a palace or a cot
In city street or country spot,
With stately wayside, or narrow halls,
With pillars high, or low hung walls?

I cannot tell. Why should I care—
What matters it if Love is there?

Is home among the crowded gay,
Or out along some lonely way?

Where winds blow cold and ice is king,
Or where the balmy breezes sing?

Where clouds are black, or skies are fair?

What matters it if Love is there?

Your home stands grandly on the hill,

Mine snuggles by the hidden rill;

The streaming lights afar you see—
A tiny lamp shines out for me.

Your home! My home! Just any where!

Solomon was the wisest man in the world. In building operations, as in law-making, he showed the utmost wisdom, in that he used only Cedar Shingles. The Carters established many warm friendships among our people who wish them much happiness and prosperity in their new home.

Several sporadic cases of scarlet fever are now, or have been during the past two months, prevalent in and near Hondo. The health authorities have all cases under close surveillance and no danger of an epidemic is feared. However, the burden of preserving the public health should not be shifted to the health officers alone. Precautions to avoid exposure should be exercised by all, and every one should clean up around his premises and render his surroundings as sanitary as possible. Let's not get panicky or unduly alarmed but let's exercise good common sense and prudence.

Fresh evidence of the need for affiliation of our High School with institutions of higher learning is afforded by the large number of High School graduates who leave here this fall to enter preparatory schools because they are not ready to enter college. Several thousand dollars will be taken from Hondo and spent in preparatory schools which if expended in properly equipping the Hondo High School would remove the necessity of our children going away to preparatory school and enable them to step from the High School into the University. Let us think about these things. It is time we were thinking seriously over the matter.

Car load shipments forwarded from Hondo for the past week included 11 cars of cotton seed, 1 car of household goods, 1 car mixed grain, 1 car of live stock and 2 cars of oats.

Judge James Cornell and wife of Sonora and Mrs. Connell's sister, Mrs. Clamp of Brackettville, were visitors in Hondo yesterday. They left here for Alpine on a visit to friends there.

Following is a list of the car load shipments received in Hondo for the week ending Thursday evening: 3 cars of coal, 1 car of oil, 1 of vehicles, 1 of beef, 1 of lumber, 1 of cement, 2 of household goods and 1 of sugar.

Six descendants of Ham were before his honor, Judge Lamm, on a charge of gaming this week. Each drew a fine of $10.00 and trimmings, which represented an outlay that will keep them for some time in the cotton patch in order to recoup themselves for the amount they had to contribute to the county's strong box.

The Hondo public school opened for the 1916-17 term last Monday with all teachers in their places and a large attendance of pupils. After a few preliminaries, the several rooms got down to business and the work of the new school year has started off very encouragingly. With a strong Superintendent and a good corps of teachers the prospects for a successful term were never better than at the present time.

The Teachers' Institute.

Thursday's program probably proved to be the most valuable and interesting day of the Institute.

Miss Barton, instructor of music in the Hondo Public Schools, made an excellent talk on the subject of "Singing as Taught in the Public Schools."

The subject of teaching penmanship in our schools received considerable attention. This is one question that should be properly emphasized. The talk was led by Superintendent W. N. Saathoff and Miss Carrie Wipff.

The subjects of Home Economics and farm problems were ably discussed by Misses Payne and Bandy and Professor S. H. Saathoff.

Professor L. H. Kidd made a very forcible address to the Institute on the subject of "Taking the Balance Sheet." Professor Peeler gave the Institute a very interesting talk on with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the mucous membranes of the mucous surfaces. The proper combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENNEY & CO., Proprs., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, price 75c.

"Playground Supervision."

The teachers were honored by the presence of Professor Miller of the South West State Normal and Miss Amanda Stoltzfuss of the Extension department from the State University. The addresses by these teachers were greatly appreciated and very instructive.

The high school section, Thursday afternoon was under the leadership of Professor O. W. Peters. The Primary and Intermediate section was led by Miss Bessie Boone.

The program at the Institute last Friday was especially prepared for trustees and teachers. A number of school trustees of the county honored the institute with their presence, thus showing their interest in the work.

A very interesting discussion of "Vocational Education" was entered into by a number of the teachers, led by Professor O. W. Peters.

Professor T. C. Hickman gave a very instructive address on "The Advantages of Centralization".

County Superintendent W. N. Saathoff explained the compulsory school attendance law. Professor Saathoff also made a very interesting talk on the building of a modern school house, drawing pictures to illustrate the different parts of the building.

Considerable time was taken up in discussing the Interscholastic League for another year. Much interest was manifested by the teachers in the next track and field meet. A committee composed of Prof. Hickman, Prof. Peters, Prof. Kidd, Prof. Myres, Miss Garrett, Mrs. Bush and Prof. Williams, was appointed to formulate plans for the Spring Meet.

After the resolutions were adopted, the Institute adjourned feeling that much valuable work had been accomplished.

Resolutions adopted at the Medina County Teachers' Institute:

Whereas, We the teachers of Medina county, assembled at Hondo, have found the Institute to be of great value and a source of inspiration. Be it

Premiums for Pecans and Other Nuts.

In the interest of Science and Texas Horticulture, the State Department of Agriculture is seeking to discover and preserve for posterity the fine varieties of native nuts of Texas.

To this end prizes are offered for the following nuts which are deemed worthy of commercial propagation in this state:

For black walnuts, hickory nuts, chestnuts, English walnuts, butternuts or any crosses or hybrids of the same, a prize of Ten Dollars for those that are adjudged to be worthy of commercial propagation, either in cash or nut trees.

For any new, unnamed varieties of pecans of Texas origin that are adjudged to be of more commercial value than those already standardized a prize of Fifty Dollars in cash or nut trees.

It is understood that any one contesting for these prizes must submit not less than one pound of nuts and agree to furnish a history of the tree, its age, description, locality, and report as to regularity of bearing and permit the use of scions of propagation in the interest of science and the nut industry.

This contest will close December 31, 1916. Any one entering the contest and winning a prize will have the opportunity of distributing the scions at five cents per foot. The samples of nuts furnished in this contest must be forwarded to the Department of Agriculture at Austin, Texas, with the name, kind of nut and the address of the sender, in case more than one sample is sent each should bear separate numbers.

HOW TO JUDGE NUTS OF VALUE.

General characteristics: A nut of commercial value should be thin shell, good cracking qualities, plump kernel and good flavor, especially with the pecan. While these qualities would be desirable in walnuts or hickory nuts it is not absolutely necessary that they be of thin shell.

The decision as to prizes will be made by the 31st day of January, 1917 by a committee selected by the Commissioner of Agriculture.

For further particulars about the premiums, address Mr. J. H. Burkett, Clyde, Texas.

When the day breaks some men are too lazy to make use of the pieces.

Name Your Farm

OCCASIONALLY we get a letter from a farmer on stationery on which is printed his own name and the name of his farm. In some cases we find on the margin, briefly stated, what is being made a specialty of on that farm.

This looks like business, and demands attention at once, for it catches the eye.

The editor of your county paper always stands in need of a bushel of potatoes, a sack of water-ground meal, or some such farm product, and would be glad to swap you some nice printed envelopes and paper to match for these things.

It would pay you to do some trading with this man, who is doing a lot in his way to help you, so next time you are in town talk it over with him. Before giving the order talk it over with the wife and family, and decide on an appropriate, catchy name for your farm and then—live up to it.—President Charles S. Barrett in National Field.

To the Club Girls.

Amarillo, Texas, Sept. 4, 1916.

Dear Club Girls:

This has been a most wonderful and busy week. I don't think that I ever traveled as fast and as far by auto in my life as we have done the past week. But this is a great and beautiful country and one does not grow tired easily.

I must tell you first about the lovely Girls Day we had in Claude last Sunday. There is a wonderful bond of fellowship between the girls of the county and the town of Claude and when Girls Day is held it means a gathering together of all the girls of the county who can possibly get to the nice little town of Claude. This year, although it rained hard, there was a big gathering. All the girls brought baskets for dinner and it was spread upon the lawn of the hospitable home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Warner. In fact, Mrs. Warner is the responsible person for creating the delightful occasion. After the dinner an interesting and beautiful service dedicated to Girls was rendered at the Baptist Church. There were short sermons by the visiting clergymen from Amarillo and the local clergymen and others. Of course, I was delighted to talk for girls and their interest has almost become my religion. We also had short talks upon the various kinds of girls. I was given the topic, "The Girl Who Does Things", and I illustrated my talk with the story of Annie Mae Hudgins, the wonderful club girl of Layne (R. F. D. Denison), Grayson County. I am sure all who attended the Austin convention remembered the girl whom I introduced from the platform of the Senate Chamber of the Capitol where we held our club meeting. I hope to hold a girls day in every club district in the course of time.

I visited the wonderful Goodnight ranch a few days ago and held a meeting at the town named in honor of the pioneers of that name. Col. and Mrs. Goodnight are known all over this section of the State for their generosity to young people and others. In fact, they are known everywhere. The ranch home is so quaint and pretty with its many narrow halls and rooms filled with Indian relics and old guns and hides of the native animals that used to rove these plains before the going of the Indians and the coming of the white settlers. I am going to send you an autobiography of these old settlers and let every girl read what the women of that day went through to build for her this great and wonderful State. No state in the Union has the thrilling and romantic history that belongs to the State of Texas. In another letter I will tell you of the great herds of buffaloes that roam the plains of the Goodnight ranch.

R. V. Sauer returned the latter part of last week from Uvalde where he attended the Dry Farmer's Congress. Mr. Sauer says that the meeting was a very enthusiastic one and that much good was accomplished by it. A big barbecue was held in honor of the visitors and much enjoyed by them.

Mr. A. L. York and T. J. Martin also attended the Convention and reported having had an interesting and profitable good time.—Brackett News-Mail.

Sabinal Sentinel Siftings.

Hon. Fletcher Davis and wife and Mrs. J. N. Dowdy were over from Hondo Monday afternoon. Mr. Davis made an address before the Teachers' Institute.

Mr. Rolf Balzen has a car set and is paying $38.00 per ton for cotton seed.—Knappa Cor.

Mrs. Crow and Miss Martha Thompson of Sabinal visited Mr. and Mrs. McNutt Sunday.—Knappa Cor.

Mr. Walter Albrecht and Miss Sauer of D' Hanis visited Mr. and Mrs. R. Albrecht, also attended the Thein-Balzen wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Marks of Sabinal visited Mr. I. N. Hall and family Sunday.—Knappa Cor.

At the Lutheran Church, Monday, September 4th, Miss Charlotte Thein and Mr. Julius Balzen were united in marriage, Rev. Langner officiating. Promptly at 4 o'clock the bells were rung to announce the arrival of the bridal party. First came the little ribbon girls, Annie Balzen and Louise Knappa, who each stretched the ribbon from the entrance to the altar through the lines of which the bridal couple passed. Then came the flower carriers, little Clara Balzen, Estella Behr, and Theodore Behr, who dropped the flowers all the way. Miss Lena Balzen and Mr. Walter Thein, Miss Rosa Knappa and Mr. Robert Balzen, then the bride and groom. The ring ceremony was introduced. Miss Seima Kessler played the wedding march. The bride was beautifully gowned in embroidered net over satin. Her veil was draped with orange blossoms a large bouquet of which she carried. The bridesmaids were each gowned in beautiful costumes of marquise. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thein, while the groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Balzen. After the ceremony a sumptuous feast was spread at home of the groom's parents, where about 200 guests gathered to partake of the delicious viands and enjoy the evening. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful and expensive presents. We wish for them a long and happy married life. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Strauss and family and Mrs. Frank Kupert of San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Gotlob Weiblein, Castroville; Mr. and Mrs. J. Baizen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Baizen, Stonehill; Mr. and Mrs. Mumme and family, Dunlay; Mr. H. E. Forst, Hondo, Mr. F. Sauer and daughter, Mr. Zinsmeyer and family and many others, D' Hanis; also several from Sabinal. Mr. Balzen is having a beautiful bungalow cottage built on his farm where they will reside as soon as it is completed.—Knappa Cor.

Mrs. McNutt of Knappa was over Monday to visit her sisters. Miss Vera Jones spent Sunday with her parents in Hondo.

Changing Seasons Brings Colds.

"Stuffed-up head," clogged-up nose, tight chest, sore throat are sure signs of cold, and Dr. King's New Discovery is sure relief. Treat a cold persistently; half-way measures leave a lingering cough.

Bad Temper From Bad Liver.

You can generally blame your grouch on a lazy liver. Liver ills are back of coated tongue, bad breath, biliousness and muddy, sallow complexion. Insufficient flow of bile leaves impurities in the liver which poison the entire system. Po-Da-Lax is Nature's remedy. It stimulates the activity of the liver, increases the flow of bile, and by its laxative quality carries off the waste matter and clears the complexion. At your Druggist, 25c.

True friendship is like sound health the value of it is seldom known until it is lost.—Colton.

Our Jetney Offer--This and 5c.

DON'T MISS THIS. Cut out this slip, enclose with five cents to Foley & Co., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. ### Best Treatment for a Burn.

If for no other reason, Chamberlain's Salve should be kept in every household on account of its great value in the treatment of burns. It allays the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a severe one, heals the parts without leaving a scar. This salve is also unequalled for chapped hands, sore nipples and diseases of the skin. Price, 25 cents. For sale by All Dealers.

A man is never so on trial as in the moment of excessive good fortune.—Lew Wallace.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This is a medicine that every family should be provided with. Colic and diarrhoea often come on suddenly and it is of the greatest importance that they be treated promptly. Consider the suffering that must be endured until a physician arrives or medicine can be obtained. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has a reputation second to none for the quick relief which it affords. Obtainable everywhere.

Good-looking girls are born, but most good-looking women are self-made.

Head-Off That All-Winter Cough.

At the first sign of sorethroat, tight chest or stuffed-up head take a dose of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. The healing pine-tar, soothing honey and glycerine quickly relieve the congestion, loosen the phlegm and break up your cold. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey has all the benefits of the healing aroma from a pine forest; it is pleasant to take and antiseptic. The formula on the bottle tells why it relieves colds and coughs. At your Druggist, 25c.

Mrs. McNutt of Knappa was over Monday to visit her sisters.

Miss Vera Jones spent Sunday with her parents in Hondo.

Some charity may begin at home, but the best brand is directed toward the homeless.

Are You Looking Old?

Old age comes quick enough without inviting it. Some look old at forty. That is because they neglect the liver and bowels. Keep your bowels regular and your liver healthy and you will not only feel younger but look younger. When troubled with constipation or biliousness take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are intended especially for these ailments and are excellent. Easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Obtainable everywhere.

Good looks may catch a man, but it takes good housekeeping to hold him.

MAKE CARVING EASY

Devices That Will Be Welcomed
by Many.

Inventor, It Would Seem, Has Introduced Something That Should Prove to Be a Boon to Suffering Humanity.

The jocular remarks of Mark Twain and other humorists about the difficulties and embarrassments of the man with the carving implements presiding over the roast of meat or fowl will no longer apply when the dining tables are all supplied with the meat holder which has recently been patented by a Denver man.

Mark Twain said in one of his stories that he always refused to carve except in dining rooms where the wall paper matched the color of the gravy, so that any unfortunate mishap might not do any serious damage to the mural decoration. To one who has carved, it does seem that the usual plate on which the roast is placed for the cutting operation is inadequate and invites disaster, for a little slip of the meat will be the means of projecting a stream of the gravy over some unfortunate person seated around the board.

Two metal members with prongs on their inside are made to surround and secure the meat by bringing their two free ends together, at which point they are clamped. The other ends are secured in a ball and socket joint by means of which it is possible to turn the roast over.

Baby Monoplane.
What is undoubtedly the smallest successful monoplane in the world has recently been constructed by a Californian. In addition to this distinction the machine is almost as unusual in design as it is in size, for it is driven tail first by an ordinary seven horsepower, twin-cylinder motorcycle engine. It weighs, complete with its gasoline tank filled, only 238 pounds, has a wing spread of 18 feet, an overall length of 16 feet, and a supporting area of about 90 square feet. The motor drives a 4½-foot propeller at about 1,400 revolutions a minute, giving the craft a speed of nearly 60 miles an hour. The power plant is placed at the extreme rear of the machine, so that its weight is balanced by that of the pilot who rides several feet ahead of it. The machine has been driven a number of times, and during these flights has remained in the air from 15 minutes to half an hour.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Wrong Stocking Stolen.
On one of the coldest nights this winter Mrs. Annie Dietz of 115 Mechanics street prudently wore woolen sleeping hose when she went to bed. Testifying in court against Michael Arenewich, who was held in $500 bail on the charge of burglary and attempted theft from person, Mrs. Dietz said:

"As I was placing a roll of $400 in my stocking I heard a slight noise, and looking out thought I saw this man stepping back from my bedroom window. The next I knew I was awakened by feeling one of my stockings being pulled off. Before I could turn on a light the intruder jumped through the window and disappeared with my left stocking."

The chief reason why Arenewich was charged merely with attempted theft was that Mrs. Dietz put the money in her right stocking.—Hartford (Conn.) Dispatch to New York World.

The Man With No Initials.
Playgoers everywhere will regret to hear that that fine actor, Mr. Charles Hawtrey, has had heavy financial losses owing to the war.

Mr. Hawtrey can be as humorous off the stage as he is on it. On one occasion he was talking to a friend about peculiar names and initials.

"By the way," he said, "I have a friend who is in a most unfortunate position. He actually has no initials."

"No initials?" exclaimed his friend in amazement. "Why, how can that be? Hasn't he got any name?"

"Oh, yes," answered Mr. Hawtrey, with a twinkle in his eye. "But you see, each of his names begins with an aspirate and, being cockney, he always drops his h's."—Keedman's.

May Be Valuable Find.
Workmen digging in the bay of Guanabara, at Rio de Janeiro, recently brought up a quantity of pure phosphorus. Acting on the belief that a deposit of value had been tapped, the government was advised of the discovery and it has ordered an investigation to determine the probable size and value of the body of mineral.

The Soda Fountain
An American Institution

Did you ever stop to realize that the soda fountain is as much an American institution as the saloon is a German institution? "Fanta-Bell" is an institution in France and the "Plan Pending" an English institution? And the funny part of it all is that though one seldom sees a soda fountain in Europe (and then only for the sake of attracting American tourists) just as soon as a foreigner goes to the country he too seems to learn to love the soda fountain.

But, if you are old enough to look back a few years you will remember that only comparatively recently has the soda fountain been either so popular or so beautiful and hygienic.

You may remember what these old soda fountains looked like—what poor provision they made to supply even their scanty trade.

What has brought this great change? What has made the soda fountain a national institution—a comfort and necessity in the daily lives of men and women—not only during the hot summer time but the whole year round.

It is evident in the fountain trade. The same principles of purity, goodness and deliciousness made another astounding record of growth possible. Bottling plants have been established all over the country to take care of this branch.

Just think of it—over 80,000,000 glasses and bottles of Coca-Cola are sent every day to every state in the Union, as is the soda fountain a national institution so is Coca-Cola the National Beverage.

The answer lies in that delicious beverage Coca-Cola. Soon after its introduction at the fountains people began to ask more and more for this distinctive drink. Along with its demand came the demand for more places that would serve it. So soda fountains sprang up everywhere, interesting in beauty, neatness and attractive service. It is evident that the part the soda fountain and all its allied industries have come to play in the economic life of the nation today is due largely to the stimulus given to it by Coca-Cola. The same may have been true for bottled beverages growing in 1899. Coca-Cola in bottles was first put on the market and the same quick recognition and appreciation accorded to it in this form as
